Note: This was transcribed from a document in a cyrillic alphabet. There are some characters that are unique to Yugoslavian cyrillic and no key was found to transliterate them. Some effort at decyphering them suggests what looks like an "H" with a "b" grafted to its left was, phonetically an "nj". Similarly, a lambda with a "b" grafted to its left has been transcribed as "lj." In translations, this seemed to be the correct interpretation of the characters.
